

We Remember Them

In the rising of the sun and in its going down,
we remember them.
In the blowing of the wind and in the chill of winter,
we remember them.
In the opening of buds and in the rebirth of spring,
we remember them.
In the blueness of the sky and in the warmth of summer,
we remember them.
In the rustling of leaves and in the beauty of autumn,
we remember them.
In the beginning of the year and when it ends,
we remember them.
When we are weary and in need of strength,
we remember them.
When we are lost and sick at heart,
we remember them.
When we have joys we yearn to share,
we remember them.
So long as we live, they too shall live, for they are now a part of us, as we remember them.

Robert Henry Bonde 59. Died on March 27, 2009, of pancreatic cancer. Beloved father of Melissa Hannah Bonde, of Copley, OH and Carolyn Jordan Bonde, of South Euclid, OH; loving son of Barbara Allen, of Surprise, AZ and Robert O. Bonde (deceased). Devoted brother to twin sisters, Sandra Heidecke, of Hillsboro, OR and Susan Bonde, of Portland, OR.

Jeannie Bradof Kirkpatrick passed away on May 16 after an extended battle with cancer. Jeannie was born in St. Charles, Ill. in 1950.

Jeannie was a research scientist at WIL Research in Ashland for 19 years and at I.I.T.R.I. in Chicago for over 20 years. She greatly enjoyed the work collaborations and friendships that she experienced through the years.

However, it was outside of work where Jeannie truly was able to relish life. Since childhood, she derived great joy from music, gardening, attracting and feeding birds, and showering love and treats on family dogs. She played piano and organ and belonged to many choral groups. For over 15 years, she lent her strong alto voice to the Trinity UCC Choir in Wadsworth and the Akron Symphony Chorus. In addition, she enjoyed singing with the Duke University Choir, the St. Michael's UCC Choir in West Chicago and the Elgin Symphony Chorus.

Jeannie was enduringly loyal to family and friends. This was exemplified by her assistance to her parents, Rich and Cora, during their last years, including visiting her mother in a nursing home every day for almost two years.

Her family includes Dan, her husband of 23 years; and daughter, Jennifer; her sister and brother-in-law, Jan and Steve Parks, and their children, Robin, Martin and Paul, and grandchildren; as well as her cousins from the Chicago area and elsewhere.

Jeannie will be greatly missed by her family, friends and colleagues. With kindness, love and humanity, she positively affected the lives of all who knew her.

Katherine "Kate" Charles, 55, dancer, musician, teacher. November 15, 2005. Katherine Charles, a former teacher at the Waldorf School in Baltimore who was active in the local folk music and dance community, died Nov. 6 of early-onset Alzheimer's disease at the Ruxton Health and Rehabilitation Center in Pikesville. The Waverly resident was 55. Born and raised in Roslyn Heights, N.Y. She graduated from the Waldorf School of Garden City, N.Y., in 1968, then earned a bachelor's degree from Beloit College in Beloit, Wis., and a master's degree from Adelphi University in Garden City.

Daniel "Dan" Robert Crawmer, 69, of Champaign, formerly of Peoria, passed away peacefully on Tuesday, May 26, 2020, at Carle Foundation Hospital in Urbana.

Dan was born on July 11, 1950, at Mercy Hospital in Urbana, a son to Haskell William (Bill) Crawmer and Rubie Louise (Gillooly). He was preceded in death by his father, Bill; his wife of 41 years, Kathleen (Kathy) Crawmer; his parents-in-law, James and Ann Gallivan; and three nieces, Holly Williams, Brooke Crawmer-Joseph and Naomi Anderson.

He is survived by his second wife, Nancy Clinton; mother, Rubie Crawmer; brother, Jeff (Carol) Crawmer; sister, Judy (Mike) Anderson; sons, Charly (Jacinda) and Tim (Katie) Crawmer; step-sons, Justus and Travis (Jamie) Clinton; seven grandchildren; three step-grandchildren; and twelve nieces and nephews.

In 1954, Dan's parents moved the family to Peoria, IL, where Dan later attended Richwoods High School. He subsequently went to Beloit College in Beloit, WI, for his BA, where he also played football. Dan met his first wife, Kathy Gallivan, at Beloit College and they married on August 21, 1971, in Champaign, IL. After completing his undergraduate studies with a degree in history, Dan matriculated to Arizona State University and received his Master of Business Administration.

Dan and Kathy then returned to live in Peoria, IL, where Dan worked with his father and brother at his father's real estate business, HWC Realty Counselors. At HWC, he became a licensed real estate broker in 1975.

Dan, Kathy and their two sons later moved to Champaign, IL, in 1983, where Dan worked primarily in property management for his father-in-law and owned/managed Omni Fitness Center. He earned the Commercial Property Manager (CPM) designation from the Institute of Real Estate Management (IREM) in 1996. Dan was an active member of IREM Chapter 78 for many years, and held several officer positions within the Chapter. In addition, Dan became a Certified General Real Estate Appraiser in 1999 and earned the Appraisal Institute's MAI designation for expertise in commercial real estate valuation in 2005. From 2001 to the present day, Dan was the Associate Director of Real Estate Planning and Services at the University of Illinois.

He was an active member and past president of Champaign West Rotary Club, as well as a trustee at Holy Cross Church for 17 years. Dan was an avid adventurer as evidenced by his Eagle Scout achievement and his active involvement in Boy Scouting with his two sons. He was also an advocate for the game of tennis and helped foster his sons' love for the sport as well as grow the sport within the community and at the University of Illinois.

Dan's wife, Kathy, passed away on October 4, 2012. They were married for 41 years and enjoyed watching their two sons grow, compete in tennis over the years, and eventually start their own families. They also immensely enjoyed vacations together in Saugatuck, Michigan, as well as time with their grandchildren.

Dan married his current wife, Nancy Clinton, on August 9, 2014. Dan and Nancy enjoyed traveling, including to Europe and other locations of interest. They also enjoyed spending time with their combined ten grandchildren, as well as their latest family addition, Zoe the Goldendoodle.

An avid history buff, Dan had an especial interest in the American Civil War. He was a supporter of University of Illinois and United States Naval Academy athletics, especially during the time that his two sons played tennis at those schools. Above all, Dan enjoyed time with family. He was a dependable, genuine, calm presence who was always available to be an attentive listener and to give his complete support whenever needed. Never needing to be the center of attention, Dan provided a quiet leadership that made those around him feel a comfort, security and warmth that will be forever missed.

Richard Dean (by Jeff Stonehill): Richard Dean came in later as a transfer student and graduated early, about Jan. 1972, as an English major, and he was going for a Masters degree specializing in the poet John Milton at Claremont, I think, in California. He was a TKE but didn't fit in that well as a frat brother, being shy and intellectual and not an athlete, but he was one of my best friends. He had an older brother attending Beloit and his family was part of the Dean Milk family. Richard and I used to talk about classes, world news, philosophy, etc. and he helped motivate me into becoming a better student when I returned from my Field Term and vacation term in Europe (my grades during my first 5 terms were about 2.5 as contrasted with the 3.75 average in my last 4 consecutive terms, starting with the summer of 1971 and ending with the 9th tuition free summer term in 1972). I still remember him giving me a lift in his red Porsche to Beloit's then Greyhound Bus depot, after one term's end when I was returning to NY via flying from O'Hare. Richard came to Manhattan en route to Europe (while we were still Beloit students, I think) and he ate dinner with my parents and me at our apartment on E. 14th St. He managed to leave his passport in the apartment which I discovered after he left so took mass transit to return it to him at the artsy Chelsea Hotel on W. 23rd St., as Richard was scheduled to fly the next day. I bumped into him literally on a London sidewalk (I didn't know he was in London) when I was there as a Field Term worker in the fall of 1970. He said he would be driving in France and Germany and we made plans to go together once my work term finished but later he canceled as the timing didn't work for him. At Beloit, Richard became the boyfriend of Pam Taylor '71, who I thought was a great girl and very smart and witty. They lived together in California. While Richard was in school in California and later working there, he and I used to exchange correspondence. I was sorry to learn that he was in a fatal car accident (but lack any details about that), dying young in Jan. 1981. I sent the last and lengthy letter from him to me, which included amusing scribbles (after making a photocopy for myself) to Pam as I thought she might like to read his thoughts but I never heard from Pam again. She passed away years later from what I read in the Beloit Magazine, which saddened me.

Dr. Mark Lowry Friedell, 65, of Orlando, Florida passed away July 10, 2016 in Kansas City, Missouri. He was raised in Newton, Massachusetts, son of Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert Friedell, brother to Anne Lewis, Dr. Benjamin Friedell, James Friedell, and Sarah O'Connell. Dr. Friedell attended Beloit College where he played football and was a member of the SAE fraternity. He attended medical school at the University of Bologna in Bologna, Italy where he met his wife, Donna. They were married on December 30, 1977. Dr. Friedell did his Surgical Residency at the University of Massachusetts and his Vascular Fellowship at Beth Israel Hospital in Newark, New Jersey. His first position was at the Chicago VA Hospital and he was on the faculty at the University of Chicago Medical School. He went on to practice vascular surgery as well as become the Program Director and Academic Chairman of Surgical Education at Orlando Regional Medical Center (ORMC). At the time of his death, Dr. Friedell was the Ralph R. Coffey Professor of Surgery and the Chairman, Department of Surgery at the University of Missouri - Kansas City School of Medicine. Dr. Friedell is past president of the Florida Vascular Society and also past president of the National Association of Program Directors in Surgery (APDS). He also belonged to numerous local and national surgical societies. His life was devoted to the teaching and mentoring of surgical residents and medical colleagues. Among his accomplishments, Dr. Friedell was instrumental in creating the Level 1 Trauma Center at ORMC and the results of his work came to bear during the recent tragedy in Orlando. He is survived by his wife, Donna, and his sons, Nick and Alex Friedell.

Bruce "Barney" E. Fyfe, 66, of Dunedin, FL went to be with his Lord early Friday morning March 24, 2017 at Mease Dunedin Hospital, surrounded by his loving family.

Bruce was born in New Jersey. His mother spent three months in bed awaiting his arrival. Bruce arrived early and got to spend almost two months in a hospital incubator. Bruce always seemed to be a little ahead of his time.

In 1964, his family moved to New York City, where Bruce completed high school. He attended Beloit College in Beloit WI, graduating in 1972 with a BA in history. In 1975, he obtained a paralegal degree in fiduciary law from New York University. Following graduation Bruce secured a job with Manufacturers Hanover Trust. He was the youngest Trust Officer for the bank.

In 1980, Bruce grew tired of freezing weather and moved to Florida. He began working at Park Bank in 1982 and, while there, created the first private banking division in the state of Florida. He left the bank in 1985, starting his own financial planning firm, Personal Resource Management, with a handful of clients.

In 2000, Bruce merged his firm with Provisé Management Group LLC. Bruce worked with many great people at Provisé. One of the special people in Bruce's life at Provisé was Eric Ebbert, his friend and partner. But even more important to Bruce were his many clients, whom he always rightfully referred to as his friends. And they in turn were supportive of Bruce, especially in his desire to help those in need in the community.

Bruce met his wife, Wanda in August 1990 and they were married at Everybody's Tabernacle in 1992. Bruce was a member of Everybody's Tabernacle and taught adult Sunday school and also provided occasional sermons in church. Bruce never claimed to be a preacher, only a teacher. Bruce's faith and love of God showed in his passion to help those in need. Bruce was diagnosed with idiopathic pulmonary fibrosis early February 2017. During the struggles with his illness he never questioned his faith and told everyone he was ready to go to heaven.

Through the years, Bruce was involved in and supported many local organizations including Homeless Empowerment Program, Morton Plant Mease Health Care, Baycare, Morton Plant Mease Health Care Foundation, Clearwater Free Clinic, Big Brothers Big Sisters, Habitat for Humanity of Pinellas County, Humane Society of Pinellas County, and Charity Works.

Bruce served as Chairman of HEP, Homeless Empowerment Program (formerly the Homeless Emergency Project) for 23 years. During this time, with the help of HEP's dedicated staff, volunteers and Board of Directors, he was able to help the organization to expand from two employees and a budget of $100,000, to over 60 employees with an operating budget of over $5 million, serving just under 400 homeless individuals, families, and veterans per day. During his chairmanship, he was instrumental in the growth and expansion of the nonprofit, overseeing the development of HEP's campus from a collection of trailers used for offices and housing to the expansive eight-acre campus that exists today.

Most notably, Bruce and his wife, Wanda were responsible for the construction of HEP West Veteran's Apartments and Clubhouse. Inspired by the untimely death of his son, Brendan, a U.S. Marine who served three combat tours in Iraq, HEP West serves as respite for homeless veterans - specifically those who suffer from Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder and Traumatic Brain Injury. Bruce was a man of selfless devotion, and was never one to seek the limelight. He was often an unsung hero, who was quick to give credit to others. It was only in recent years that he was publicly recognized for his work on behalf of HEP, having received awards for his philanthropic work. In 2012, Bruce was honored with the Lighting Community Hero Award, and in 2013 by the Invest in Others Charitable Foundation which allowed HEP's name to be placed in lights on the world famous NASDAQ Market Site in New York City's Times Square - a true professional highlight in Bruce's career. In addition, financial gifts from these prestigious awards benefited homeless veterans residing at HEP. Bruce will be deeply missed by the entire HEP family, and his generous spirit will live on in the lives of those he helped.

Bruce served on the Morton Plant Hospital, Morton Plant Mease Health Care, and BayCare Board of Directors for nearly 30 years. Bruce also served in many capacities including Chair for both the Morton Plant Mease Health Care Foundation and hospital boards. During that time, he was directly involved in the building of the Cantonis ER-1, the Turley Family Health Center, the Bardmoor Outpatient Clinic, the Cheek-Powell Heart & Vascular Pavilion, the Morgan Heart Hospital, Ptak Orthopedic and Neurosciences Building, Axelrod Pavilion, Carlisle Imaging Center, Susan Cheek Needler Breast Center, Mease Countryside expansion, Jacobsen ER, Mease Dunedin Harris ER, Morton Plant North Bay Hospital, Starkey Tower, Tiedemann Tower, Doyle Tower, and programs such as the Dr. George Morris 'Earn As You Learn' and so much more. Bruce felt his best achievements were the merger of Morton Plant Hospital and Mease Hospitals without the need for additional litigation, and creating the Foundation's Community Impact Grant Process. Bruce was a passionate and honorable man who believed access to quality health care is an essential component to life, community, and family.

In addition to his loving wife, Wanda, Bruce is survived by his son, Alec; his dog, Duke; brother, Richard Fyfe and his wife, Choi Fyfe of Jacksonville; sisters-in-law, Barbara Green, Bonnie Slaughter, Audrey Patnaude, Pat McAbee, all of Clearwater and Judy McAbee of Kennesaw, GA; brothers-in-law, Nate McAbee and Pastor David McAbee of Clearwater, Charlie McAbee of Homosassa, and Max McAbee of Kennesaw, GA as well as 22 nephews and nieces and 24 great-nephews and nieces. Bruce Fyfe was also the father of the late Brendan Fyfe.

Alice Gates is reported to have died on 11/30/2004.

Alicia Gordon died suddenly in her home in Topanga, CA, on January 19, 2004. She was 53. She is already sorely missed by the many who knew her in the translation and Macintosh user communities, in Southern California and more especially in cyberspace.

As for many of us, translation was a second or even a third career for Alicia. She was born and raised in Brooklyn, New York and attended Hunter College High School, a competitive magnet school in Manhattan, where she graduated with honors. Upon graduation, she ventured away from the city to Beloit College in Wisconsin, where she majored in economics and minored in physics. After college, she ventured even further afield to spend a decade living and working in Europe. For two years, she taught English and business at the École Supérieure de Commerce et d'Administration d'Entreprises in Nantes, France. For eight years, she lived in Seville, Spain, where she coordinated an overseas study program for the University of North Carolina, studied music at the Seville Conservatory, played guitar or her flute in some flamenco rock groups, and worked as a translator on the side.

When she returned to the United States in the 1980s, she settled in Los Angeles and soon moved to Topanga, which she loved and then never left. She put her foreign-language skills to use in jobs as a sound engineer (she worked on the Spanish soundtrack of Star Wars) and production of advertising commercials, which led her deeper into the entertainment industry. As Gordon Artists, she became a talent agent representing jazz and international musicians, handling booking, management and public relations. Her clients included guitarist Pepe Habichuela and modern flamenco groups Pata Negra and Ketama from Spain, Limpopo from Russia and Ivan Lins from Brazil, for whom she arranged U.S. tours and, for the latter two, appearances at the World Cup in 1994.

In the mid-1990s Alicia switched careers entirely to become a full-time translator, renaming her business Gordon Word Artists. Alicia was a splendid example of how life experience, in-depth knowledge of many technical areas, curiosity, a passion for detail, persistence, and love of language can, without university translator courses, lead to success in professional translation – a career path of which Alicia was proud and which she communicated enthusiastically to others. She obtained accreditation from the American Translators Association (ATA) in Spanish to English and French to English and acquired the first of a series of Mac computers, of which she became an ardent devotee. She was soon working for clients around the world by phone, fax and e-mail from her remote canyon location. As she put it, she specialized “in subjects from the technical to the creative, with a broad base of knowledge to draw on in the areas of contract law and jurisprudence, business and marketing, high tech computer applications, audio-video, telecommunications and broadcast electronics, and I save a niche for the music and film business.” Her experience in the entertainment industry gave her an edge in subject matter related to it, especially broadcasting and licensing but not excluding adaptation of scripts for lip sync or subtitles. For the ATA conference in Los Angeles in 2002, she drew on her music industry background to book the band and make the arrangements for the Friday evening "World Dance Party" at the conference hotel.

Today translators take it for granted that cooperation across international borders and continents is the norm. A mere 12-15 years ago, however, this was something new. Through her indefatigable willingness to help a colleague, and her presence on the first non-university computer translation forum to be accessible anywhere in the world – CompuServe's FLEFO (where many of us first came to know her) – as a sought-after Mac specialist and regular contributor to the Wordfast user group (to which she had posted just days before her death), she was instrumental in establishing and maintaining bonds between translators everywhere, thus pioneering international cooperation between colleagues.

For her distinguished work, her commitment to her fellow-translators and Macintosh and Wordfast User Groups, and her never-failing willingness to help others both professionally and personally, we thank her one last time and pay our respects. The gap Alicia left will take a long, long time to fill.

Alicia leaves behind her only sister, Jane, and niece Jenifer who arranged this memorial site to celebrate Alicia's life.

Jean Gordon D'Almeida was tragically killed in a car accident in Wyoming with her husband, only several months after their marriage.

George J. Gott III, 69, of Biddeford, ME, passed away on January 4, 2020 at his home. He was born on February 16, 1950 in Portland to parents George Jr. and Rita (Miville) Gott, and grew up in South Portland.

George graduated from Beloit College in Beloit, Wisconsin and received a Bachelor's degree.

He was an avid animal lover, always taking dogs and other pets into his care. He also loved reading and going to the movies. George suffered from multiple sclerosis for many years. He was a wonderful father to his twin girls, Kelly and Kate Gott, of Scarborough and Presque Isle ME, respectively.

Besides his beloved daughters, George is survived by his ex-wife and the mother of his two girls Miriam Leonard, sister Terry Caroul of St. Augustine, FL, and brother Robert Gott of Hamden, ME. He was predeceased by his parents.

Vincent R. Holness Jr. of Newark, N.J., passed away Sept. 26, 2014. He had 4 children, Britney, Adrienne, Monica, and Vincent R. III. He has a Linked-In page, reciting a career in telecommunications management.

Daniel Clark Jackson passed away on June 19, 2021 at the age of 70 in his adopted hometown of Champaign, IL. Dan practiced law there, first, as a prosecuting States Attorney for Champaign County, helping to improve the quality of life of its citizens before moving on to private practice as a highly respected criminal defense attorney.

Dan grew up in Mount Prospect, Illinois and graduated from Prospect High in 1968. He would go on to get his Undergraduate degree in Economics from Beloit College in 1972 during which he enjoyed playing college baseball and being a member of the college debate team, further refining his god given talent and intellect in the art of persuasion. He was a brilliant scholar who loved to read and in his free time, play his guitar. After graduating, Dan embarked on a successful career in the business world but that wasn't challenging enough for him and his keen intellect. Dan's true calling was in the practice of Law. He enrolled in law school at the University of Illinois at the age of 48. This is where he found his true calling and excelled in, studying law and ultimately opening his own private law practice serving justice for all.

Dan met Linda, who would become the love of his life, at debate club in 1970 while attending Illinois State. From that point on, they would build a life together and travel the world enjoying life in some of his favorite cities, such as London, Berlin, Krakow, taking in the splendid German countryside and sharing in all the wonderful cultures of Europe and beyond. He enjoyed taking cross country motorcycle rides across the US to visit family, friends and to enjoy all the wonderment this great country has to offer. Dan often said travel is the best education one can get in life.

Much like the brilliant litigator he was in the courtroom, Dan fought his medical issues head on with courage and confidence. Despite his pain and suffering and as much as it hurts to lose him, Dan stayed strong to the very end. He will always remain the hero that he is to our family. Dan is survived by Linda, brothers Scott, Steve, Tom, and sister Jeanne. He is a caring Uncle to Robert & Elizabeth Canda, Will, Casey, and Matt Jackson and Aubrey & Nick Jackson. Dan is preceded in death by his loving parents Robert & Anne Jackson.

Diane "Din" Johnston Hamm was a published author and an illustrator of children's books: Rock-a-Bye Farm, How Many Feet in the Bed?, Daughter of Suqua, Laney's Lost Momma, Grandma Drives a Motor Bed, Bunkhouse Journal, and Second Family. Encyclopedia.com notes her career as including: Freelance writer, 1971-. Barranquilla, Colombia, teacher and community extension worker, 1973-75; Community School, Seattle, WA, workshop counselor, 1981-83; has also taught in Mexico and Spain. Health clinic, volunteer counselor, 1990-. She was married to our classmate Jeff Hamm.

Celia Marie McCullough, age 71, of Knoxville, formerly of Oak Park River Forest, Illinois passed away Sunday morning, July 31, 2022, at her home after a long hard fought battle with cancer. Celia was born February 3, 1951, to Chester Charlton McCullough and Jean Marie Coffman McCullough. She graduated from Beloit College in Beloit, Wisconsin in 1972, received her Masters degree from Northern Illinois University in 1973 and PhD from Northwestern University in 1977. Celia moved to Knoxville in that year to work at the University of Tennessee Knoxville in the Educational Advancement Program before starting her business Tutor Connection in 1990. She continued to pursue her interest in education volunteering and serving as office manager at Sequoyah Elementary School for 27 years. She traveled extensively throughout her entire life that added to her wealth of knowledge. Celia made her second home in Highlands, North Carolina for 26 years. She is survived by her husband of 35 years, Gary Kaplan; sons and daughters-in-law, Tobias and Carey Kaplan of Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, Ian and Christina Spangler McCullough of Knoxville, Zoe and Alexa Macri McCullough of Knoxville; grandchildren, Bonham and Ocoee Kaplan; brother and sister-in-law, Daniel and Sue McCullough of Greenville, South Carolina; niece, Ashley McCullough; nephew, Alex McCullough. A Celebration of Life was held on Thursday, August 18, 2022, at First Presbyterian Church of Highlands, 471 Main Street, Highlands, North Carolina 28741 with The Rev. Emily Wilmarth and The Rev. Dr. Curtis Fussell officiating.

Bertram P. Minkin was born 18 September 1950, and died 16 August 1996, in St. Louis. He published at least one book of poetry: Greek Fire and Other Poems (1976). He spoke at our graduation. In the late 1970s, he taught English at Brooks School in North Andover, MA. He also directed plays, including Dylan Thomas' Under Milk Wood, and launched a poetry club/readers theater group.

Marguerite "Kitten" Kenner (nee Mullen), born September 17, 1950 in New York City, passed away peacefully at her home in Los Angeles on January 2, 2019 surrounded by her loving family. Marguerite was the light of her husband Robby's life, and deeply cherished mother to Zack and Tess, and son-in-law Geoff O'Donoghue. She was an adored sister of Maureen Charde, Thomas A. Mullen and the late Timothy P. Mullen, and treasured aunt to her nieces and nephews. Marguerite was warm beyond measure and she made everyone around her feel effortlessly at home and taken care of. She possessed profound patience, presence and kindness. Her careers were exciting and varied: nurse, accomplished chef and pastry chef, elementary school art teacher, artist, and Marriage & Family Therapist. Those around her felt deeply understood with her careful listening and inspired by her rich intellect and curiosity. She was a lover of plants and nature, cooking, art, science, and history, but, above all, she valued her beloved friends and family. Marguerite will continue to be a source of warmth and inspiration to all who knew her. A private memorial will be held in her honor in her garden.

Nancy Elizabeth Remley-Whiteley, a psychotherapist and educator, died on 2 February 2013 in Evanston after a long illness. She was 62. Dr. Remley-Whiteley was in private practice for all of her career, and also designed, developed, and ran a behavioral science course for medical residents who specialized in family medicine. In this role, she was in the forefront of a profound change in medical training that recognized the health and emotional impact of life events and illness on the individual and the family. She also taught human development and psychological services in the School of Education and Social Policy at Northwestern University for almost ten years, receiving an Outstanding Teacher Award in 2006. Born 18 February 1950 in Anamosa, Iowa, Dr. Remley-Whiteley was the daughter of Howard Marshall Remley and Betty Jane Levsen Remley. She graduated from Chatham Hall in Virginia in 1968 and from Beloit College, where she majored in English, in 1972. After teaching in Ramsgate, Kent (UK) for a year she enrolled in the graduate program in Counseling Psychology at Northwestern University. She earned a doctorate in 1979 with a dissertation on the attitudes of women medical students to professional and sex roles. An ardent horsewoman, Dr. Remley-Whiteley loved music, nature, gardening, golden retrievers, good chocolate, and spending time in Michigan. Most of all, she loved her family and friends. Dr. Remley-Whiteley is survived by her husband of 32 years, Dr. Harry Whiteley, her two sons, Daniel and Adam, her mother, three stepchildren, Michael, Miriam, and Anita, two stepgrandchildren Noah and Simone, her brother David (Betsy) Remley, and sister Jane (James) Rasley, and their families. She was a deeply beloved and cherished wife, mother, daughter, sister, teacher and friend.

Suzann Roalman, known to all as Sue, died Tuesday, September 25, 2007, at the age of 57. Sue was known to many Athens (GA) residents as a healer, activist, and writer, who passionately championed causes ranging from peace to protecting animals and the environment.

She was born in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania and had also lived in Chicago and England, but she made her home in Athens after 1980, with some time also spent in Brevard, N.C. Thousands of people in Northeast Georgia were familiar with her letters to the editor and her columns and articles in various media clearly defining her position on civic matters.

Sue was a professional massage therapist who impressed many with her empathy and ability to practice the healing arts through her knowledge of massage, herbs, foods and medicinal plants.

"She was a true Earth Mother," her son, Woody Hauke, said.

The Athens resident was in the vanguard in practicing conservation of resources and her care for the environment.

"She was saving 'gray water' long before it was a necessity," her son recalled.

After a long and difficult fight with cancer she died, surrounded by her loved ones at St. Mary's Hospice in Athens the morning of September 25th. She had returned from Brevard the previous day, where she had hoped to live into old age in the beauty of the mountains, enjoying the bounty of the rich earth and plentiful rain.

"Many of us looked forward to reading what Sue wrote in support of her causes," a longtime friend, Al Hester, said. "She didn't pull any punches and was clear about where she stood. I think one of her outstanding qualities was her identification with those who had been short-changed by life or who were isolated or newcomers to Athens."

"Sue was always befriending someone, inviting them into her home, giving them a cup of tea and listening to their stories," he said.

Sue was a protector of the earth and growing things, whether they were plants or animals. She adopted many dogs and cats who somehow found their way to her home. They formed a companionable and important part of her life and welcomed her friends and visitors.

Many friends have a mental image of Sue as an expert and tireless knitter whose "trademark" was the creation of colorful and well made knitted caps and baby booties. Her knitted creations were some of the most beloved presents she gave her many friends.

"I think my mother loved to throw herself into a good cause. She was always giving energy to others who needed it," her son recalled. "I think she had a calling to be a healer. She was always alert to see a need, and she tried to help with a whole lot of compassion."

Sue is survived by her son, Woody Hauke, of Athens; and a brother, Andy Roalman of San Luis Obispo, Calif.

Paul A. Schwegel Jr., 61, passed away peacefully Sunday, Jan. 1, 2012, at St. Alexius Hospital in Hoffman Estates. He was born Sept. 3, 1950, to Paul Sr. and Joan F. Schwegel in Chicago and moved to McHenry in 1954. Paul was a 1968 graduate of McHenry High School and graduated with honors from Beloit College in 1972. Later, he joined the family accounting firm, at which he worked for the rest of his career. Paul had a passion for baseball and was a member of the McHenry Christian softball league for 32 years. He was very active in his church, Mount Hope United Methodist in Johnsburg.

He is survived by his son, Christopher of New York, N.Y.; his mother, Joan of McHenry; his sister, Pamela (Don) Patterson of Woodstock; his dear uncle, Doug of Hackettstown, N.J.; several nieces and nephews; and his special friend, Cyndi Earley, who also was his prayer and Bible study partner. He was preceded in death by his grandparents, Martin and Pauline Schwegel and Homer and Clarice Douglass; and his father, Paul Sr., and his wife, Mary.

From Jeff Stonehill: I met Paul early on, in my first semester at Beloit. He pledged Sigma Pi and joined it and as friends, I considered Sigma Pi because of him, Tom Durkin, and others but chose TKE. Paul told me he was going to major in Classics and study Latin (which was my best subject in high school and my high Regents score got me a pass by Beloit from language requirement) and Greek. He was one of the pitchers on the varsity baseball team I played for as a freshman and sophomore. After the 2nd year, I saw little of Paul, largely due to the Beloit Plan. I think he lived in Illinois. We sat together at a reunion meal while Don Carson and others played jazz to entertain the cluster class attending and Paul told me he was suffering from diabetes. I believe he passed away within a few years of that reunion.

Raymond James Steyer, II, age 61, of Rockford, passed away on Sept. 19, 2011. Preceded in death by parents, Raymond & Jeane. He will be deeply missed by his children, William, Andrew, Elizabeth, Christopher, Thomas; relatives and good friends. Memorial Gathering 4-6 pm Saturday, Sept. 24 at Cremation Society of MN, Brooklyn Park.

Marlene Tasch. A memorial service was held on Saturday, March 7, 2009, at the Unitarian Universalist Congregation of Hillsborough, North Carolina, for Marlene Tasch, who died of a heart attack while vacationing in Mexico. She was a human resources generalist with experience in healthcare, biotechnology, distribution, and manufacturing. She had most recently worked for GlaxoSmithKline.

Sharon Wang, of Colorado Springs, died of complications from lung cancer. Born in Chicago, she graduated from the University of Chicago Laboratory School and then spent 2 years attending classes and learning Chinese in Taiwan. Over the next 10 years, she achieved certification in and taught several innovative massage, body work, and other therapeutic techniques, working at the Esalen and Radix Institutes, the Institute for Psychotherapy in Chicago, and completing a BA in Psychology from Northeastern Illinois University. Sharon continued to expand her expertise in body work and the mind/body connection, teaching Reiki, Feldenkrais, Tragger, and other bodywork techniques in workshops in Chicago and around the country as well as pursuing graduate studies in psychology. After a two-year trip around the world including studying in India, she completed an MA in Early Childhood Education at Sonoma State University in California and moved to Colorado Springs. She worked in early childhood education until she began caring for her father full time until his death. For seven years, Sharon provided the highest quality of life possible for him and facilitated his peaceful death at home. Sharon will be remembered by her loved ones, friends, and clients as one of the most intelligent, perceptive, intuitive, empathic, emotionally knowledgeable people they have ever known. Her amazing healing powers as a body worker are only rivaled by her keen insight into human interactions. She counseled and helped many friends and family members and gave of herself selflessly without being asked. Sharon's love of life and enthusiasm was contagious and inspired those around her. An intensely spiritual person, Sharon pursued inner knowledge, meaning, and truth passionately throughout her life. Sharon is survived by her loving husband, Ralph Matson, her mother, Lonny Myers, MD, four siblings (Susan, Sheila, Sherwood, and Sandra) and seven nieces and nephews.

Nancy R. [Yanowitch] Berry, 61, of North Hampton, died Thursday, Sept. 15, 2011, at her home, following a serious illness.

Mrs. Berry was raised in upstate New York and received her master's degree in health education from the University of Maryland. She was a well-respected health care consultant for nearly 30 years and was a former partner of Ernst & Young.

She was an equestrian and also enjoyed teaching yoga locally for the past eight years.

Mrs. Berry was the daughter of Doris H. Yanowitch and the late Robert E. Yanowitch, and the wife of the late James A. Berry.

She is survived by her daughter, Cristin M. Denzer and her husband Corey of McFarland, Wis.; her stepson, Sean Berry of Madison, Wis.; her brother, Michael Yanowitch and his wife Marilyn of Manhattan, N.Y.; three grandchildren, Jacob, Ryan and Joseph; and her niece, Rachel. Nancy will also be missed by her dog, Luna, and her beloved horse, Alice in Wonderland.

Nancy was a remarkable woman with many talents and a warm, loving heart. She inspired all she knew with her strength, love and wisdom.

Pamela A. [Youtzy] De Young 64, passed away September 6, 2015 after facing cancer with grace and courage. She died comfortably with a smile being able to share her final goodbyes with her family and friends. She lived her whole life hand in hand with Jesus by loving people and now she experiences him face to face. She was married for 42 years to her husband Russell De Young and deeply loved by her two children Eric De Young and Kathryn Sharpe. Pam was born in Elgin, IL, and graduated from the University of Illinois with a Masters in English Literature and, after being an elementary school teacher in Newport News, VA, completed a Masters from Virginia Commonwealth University, Richmond, VA in Gerontology. She spent the last 12 years helping train care givers of Alzheimer's patients. Her patience and knowledge of Alzheimer's disease helped many people cope with the stress of caring for their love ones. She and her husband are members of Huntington Mennonite Church where she taught preschool Sunday School for many years. She was the chair of the Mennonite Women of Virginia and for many years helped Mennonite women deepen their faith. The family wishes to express their deep gratitude to the nurses and doctors of the 5th floor of Riverside Hospital for their loving care of Pam. Pam was preceded in death by her mother Elizabeth Jeane Youtzy and father Earl Youtzy. She is survived by her step-mother Jurene L. Youtzy and brother Mark Youtzy of Albuquerque, NM, Kathryn and Gary Sharpe and Eric and Amy De Young and their two grandchildren Ryan and Megan.
